

The CASE of the Earl of Cleaveland, and the Lady Henrietta Wentworth his Grandchild and Heir.

That the Earl procured two Acts of Parliament, one 12. the other 18. of His Majesties Reign that now is, by which the Barons of His Majesties Exchequer, were authorized for 9 years, in a Summary way, to settle accounts between the said Earl and his Creditors ; which Acts did prove wholly useless : and after all endeavours of the said Earl, nothing was done by the said Barons upon them, because it put things out of the usual course of Equity, so that both the Earl and his Creditors were forced to go to the ordinary Courts of Equity, and wave the said Acts.

That this Bill presented by the Lady Poole, is to revive those Acts which have been found useless, as aforesaid, and discompose all the settlements which have been made in the said Courts of Equity, and between party and party.

The Lady Wentworth in the behalf of her Daughter, an Infant, and the Lady Lovelace the only Daughter of the late Earl of Cleaveland, and Sister of the Lord Wentworth, pray, That as they desire no benefit or advantage by any Act of Parliament, so no Creditor may, but that the Established Law may be a measure for them both ; in which, the Lady Wentworth, and her Daughter will wave all privilege, and Answer the Lady Poole, either in Law or Equity.
